10 తత్వము - Surely "Being - and Essence" are the closest interpretations of tatwa: it is commonly explained yathartham - i.e. "fact" (TRUTH) but this meaning is not clear. It perpetually occurs in Vemana. It is observable that M. Vencaya fairly omits it in the Shab: Calp: and in the Andh: Deep: he merely explains it by స్వరూపము and పరమాత్మ which are evidently insufficient explanations. That is, Form, and the Divine Spirit. Camp:'s interpretation is abstracted from Wils: p 349 and is practically useless. In Vem 638 it is a mere affix - for [illegible] తత్వము can be only translated "emptiness" nonexistence or vanity - In Vem 792 తత్వజ్ఞుడు is "he who knoweth the Essence" Vem 794 [illegible] they cannot see (or enjoy) any good - or, Truth - Perhaps True Good would be correct.
